

About the Arizona Counter Terrorism Intelligence Center (ACTIC)

- Created by Gov. Janet Napolitano as one of the action items of her Arizona Homeland Security strategy
- Established in 2004, operates under the auspices of the Arizona Department of Public Safety (DPS)
- There are 220 analysts who work out of the ACTIC from 41 different agencies: city, county, state and federal agencies all in one facility and under one roof, also referred to as a “fusion” center
- Innovative, as in Washington, different intelligence agencies operate separately
- Strong relationships between local, state, federal partners
- There are information-sharing agreements with border states, California, New Mexico and Texas
- Arizona’s center serves as a national model for law enforcement across the country
